DRI LAUNCHES ONLINE CLIENT CENTER WEBSITE

INDIANAPOLIS, IN - MAY 1, 2009 - Desktop Resources, Inc. today announced that it has launched its new Online Client Center website. "The focus of most websites is the company sponsoring the site." said Dave Keller, DRI's Director of Marketing & Sales. "We wanted to do something different. Something that would 'add value' for our existing clients by giving them easy access to information about the assets that we manage for them, as well as service-related information about work that we are doing on their behalf." DRI clients have secure access to information of interest to them, including:

- Support tickets: status of current activities, past history, invoice-related details.
- Technology Inventory: details about current hardware, software and networks, including warranty status and expiration, serial numbers, number of user licenses, etc.
- InformIT Managed Services reports: Clients using DRI's InformIT managed services receive a monthly report showing activity and results for the previous month, along with any recommendations from the DRI engineering team. Those monthly InformIT reports are now accessible from the secure DRI Online Client Center website.
